LOUIS HANAUER, President. JOHN S. TOOF, Vice President.

Two illusionists, Maskelyne and Cooke, are spoken of in the London papers as persons who have been for some years astonishing provincial audiences by the cleverness of their deceptions, and who have lately created so much perplexity in the minds of visitors to the Crystal Palace, have now transferred their amusing entertainment to the larger St. James Hall, where their curious feats will be found well worthy the attention of all engaged in testing the extent to which the evidence of the senses may be trusted. When a cabinet, raised above the floor to exclude the possibility of traps, is carefully examined by any scrutineers who choose to come forward upon the platform, and a large box, being subjected to the same rigid investigation, is carefully corded and sealed, in the presence of the spectators, by any person who voluntateers to officiate on the occasion, the ordinary means of baffling the vigilance of observers would appear to be treated with supreme disdain. Yet, even under these strict conditions, Maskelyne and Cooke contrive. LOUIS MANAUER, H. WETTER, H. H. METTE, F. FRANSIOLI, WHITAKER. MEDICAL. DR. R. L. LASKI,

Discoveries at Pompeti,

The Union Nationale, of Naples, gives an account of some interesting researches recently made in the runs of the buried city. "In the porch of a small house two skeletons were found, one of them being incontestibly that of a woman, as it had on a bracelet in missive gold, of an unnatural form, composed of thick rings soldered to each other, the whole being fastened by two pieces of wire of the same metal. The day after, in the garden of the same building, was discovered a small statue, seated, about two feet high, of a rather annoommon model. It is in terra cotta, seated, about two feet high, of a rather ancommon model. It is in terra cotta, but of no definite type. The head, in fact, is absolutely that of Jupiter; the figure is covered with a tunic, having short sleeves which only cover the upper part of the arms; the legs and hands are crossed; a cloak falls from the shoulders and envelopes the lower limbs; the right hand holds a papyrus, so that the belief is it must represent a philosopher.

belief is it must represent a philosopher. Two days after, however, a more impor-tant work of art was found at the bottom of another garden contiguous to the one above mentioned, namely, a marble Venus, measuring, with the base, mere than a yard in hight. It is in perfect preservation, as it only wants two fin-gers of the right hand, but the most remarkable characteristic is that it is col-ored. The excavations of Pompeli and ored. The excavations of Pompeli and Herculaneum have produced many other specimens of painted marble, but the tints have all more or less faded away. In the present work the hair is yellow, the eyelashes and eyebrows black; the chlamys, which from the left arm passing behind the shoulders, descends on the legs and covers the lower parts, is also tinted yellow outside, while the interior folds show at the edges some traces of blue and red. The nude parts are white. The left arm, the hand of which holds the apple of Paris, rests upon a smaller statue, the drapery of which is also tinted yellow, green and black."

The Modocs' Long-Nursed Revenge

The Modocs' Long Nursed Revenge.

The treachery of the Modocs in murdering the Peuce Commissioners brings up afresh the history of the former massacre, in which eighteen Modoc peace men were murdered. In 1852 North California was disturbed by Indian troubles. The same year a company under the command of Capt. Benjamin Wright organized and proceeded from Yreka to the Indian country around Tule lake and the lava beds, and fought three unsuccessful battles. Their force being insufficient for the Modocs, they returned to Yreka and organized a larger force, and then marched again to the Modoc country. Winter approaching, found the Modoc supply of blankets, ammunition and food extremely limited; consequently the Modocs were anxions for a cessation of hostilities.

Captain Wright received the Modocs overtures with great cordiality. A peace conference was agreed upon, and a place was appointed in the immediate vicinity of the massacre of General Canby. The conference met—about twenty-five Indians and thirty white men. Wright gave his men the signal, and in a moment they killed eighteen Modocs. Seven Modocs asserted able that revenge grew with age, culminating in the Camby-Thomas massacre.
